

Retreats

Altman Weil offers law firms, corporate legal departments and government legal groups a full range of retreat services:

- Planning: Whether you want a retreat to be educational, social, task oriented, or some combination of these, we'll help you plan it.
- Resource Participation: One or more of our consultants can attend your retreat and be a resource on issues you plan to discuss.
- Facilitation: We can lead, manage and facilitate discussions.
- Program Presentations: We can conduct an entire retreat or part of one. Possible topics include everything from training to teamwork to marketing to negotiating skills to comprehensive strategic planning. We can tailor a presentation to your specific needs.
- Special Presentations: Altman Weil can help you with recommendations for almost any occasion. Whether you're looking for high-level insight from an industry specialist or fresh, funny, after-dinner entertainment, Altman Weil is the place to start.
- Speakers: Altman Weil is also an invaluable resource for the industry's best speakers on the most important retreat topics in the legal profession.

How You Benefit:

In just one day at a firm retreat, you can build consensus and reach conclusions about issues you've been wrestling with for months.
